

LOCAL BUILDING COMPANY JARVIS IS A CLASS ACT

Jarvis is going back to school - after winning a gold star (and £2m contract) from Davenies School in Beaconsfield, Bucks. This is the third major contract that the local construction company has been awarded by the school in recent years.

Work will shortly commence on the design and construction of a stunning new multi-function block overlooking the playing fields. The building will feature full-length windows, oak panelling and rendered detailing.

Headmaster Craig Watson said: "After two years we were finally granted permission to build on the site of the Headmaster's House. The facility will include a dining room and kitchen, library, design technology centre and two classrooms." The block will be ready for occupation in Spring 2011.

Davenies is a prestigious independent day school catering for boys aged 4-13. The school's swimming pool, gymnasium and performing arts centre were all built by Jarvis.

Jarvis, a Harpenden-based construction company, has a broad portfolio of clients in the education sector, including the University of Hertfordshire, St George's in Harpenden, and St Michael's Catholic School in Garston.

Jeffrey Hollis, Marketing Manager, said: "We are pleased to maintain ongoing links with many educational establishments, and after completing one project, we are often invited in to quote on the next one, as is the case here. We know that our collaborative approach is popular, and also clients appreciate our professionalism and high quality craftsmanship. We are delighted to work with the team again and we look forward to seeing through this exciting new development."
